It's An Evil And Sinister Conspiracy That Involves Very Rich And Powerful People Who Mastermind Events And Control World Affairs Through Governments And Corporations And Are Plotting Mass Population Reduction And The Emergence Of A Totalitarian World Government! By Using Occult Secret Societies The ILLUMINATI Will Bring All Of The Nations Of This World Together As One. Having No Recourse But To Be Submissive And Under Their Control Utilizing Their Digital Currency Or Reject Their Digital Identification. Accepting It Will Surely Have Evil Implications And Deadly Consequences! Most Will!

Electronic Surveillance Everywhere

Electronic surveillance, is everywhere today, potentially creating greater safety for the public and for companies. Knowing how and where to use this type of surveillance can help companies and individuals alike make the best security decisions.

While many people are aware of the fact that there are video cameras monitoring them inside of stores and banks, few people give much thought to the role that electronic surveillance plays in everyday life. However, there's no doubt that this surveillance has proliferated in recent years. The federal government is increasingly moving in the direction of monitoring more correspondence and personal information exchange in the private sector, and more and more corporations are seeking additional steps to protect against fraud and theft.

Electronic surveillance is the use of electronic devices — such as digital cameras, surveillance cameras, GPS technology, computer software, wiretapping devices and other tracking technology, to monitor or view someone else or someone else's private communications. Video surveillance can reveal what people are doing at any point in time. GPS devices can usually reveal where an individual is and how quickly he/she is traveling. And computer surveillance can display what an individual is writing or viewing online. With the use of live feeds, remote technology, and satellites, this information can now be beamed around the world to virtually anyone interested in receiving this information.

While the explosion of electronic surveillance in recent years has led some to accuse companies and the government of "Big Brother" tactics, there is little doubt that this type of remote surveillance is extremely useful. Homeowners can now use an e-surveillance and video devices to monitor their homes, even when they are away. Nanny cams and other video surveillance devices can ensure that children are safe, even when parents are away. Companies, worried about the billions of dollars lost to fraud and theft each year, can easily monitor employees to ensure that they do their job and remain honest in the workplace.

Now that electronic surveillance devices have become more affordable, everyone needs to be made aware of the laws surrounding this type of surveillance. While a homeowner may not need special permission to video monitor their home for security purposes, employers need to tread carefully to avoid lawsuits involving invasion of privacy.

With today's heightened sensitivity to privacy issues, anyone who's considering the use of electronic surveillance needs to ensure that their surveillance system is implemented legally. Such that if the surveillance does catch illegal activity or a problem, there's less risk of a lawsuit and more probability that the events the surveillance has captured would stand up in court.

Strip search: camera that sees through clothes from 80ft away

Jonathan Leake, Science Editor The Times 2008

A CAMERA that can see through people's clothing at distances of up to 80ft has been developed to help detect weapons, drugs and explosives.

The camera could be deployed in railway stations, shopping centres and other public spaces.

Although it can see objects under clothes, its designers say the images do not show anatomical details. However, it is likely to increase fears that Britain has become a surveillance society.

The new technology, known as the T5000 system, has attracted interest from police forces, train companies and airport operators as well as government agencies. It has been developed by ThruVision, an Oxfordshire-based company spun out from the Rutherford Appleton Laboratory, one of the government's leading physics research centres.

It was designed for use in spacecraft and astronomy but researchers soon realised that cameras capable of seeing through clouds of cosmic dust could also see through clothing. This week the camera will be displayed at the Home Office scientific development branch's annual exhibition, Britain's premier showcase for security equipment, to be held on an RAF airbase in Buckinghamshire.

ThruVision already offers a smaller system designed for office foyers that can scan through clothing at a range of 30ft-40ft.

This has been used at the Canary Wharf complex in east London, which is home to several global banks and is regarded as a target for terrorists. The Dubai Mercantile Exchange has a similar installation.

The system can be linked to a computer so that it can automatically scan anyone passing and alert its human operator to anything suspicious. Clive Beattie, ThruVision's chief executive, said: "Acts of terrorism have shaken the world in recent years and security precautions have been tightened globally. The T5000 dramatically extends the range over which we can scan people."

Bill Foster, the president of Thermal Matrix, an American defence contractor specialising in imaging systems for the US military, is one customer. He said: "This could be deployed at major sporting events, concerts and rail stations as well as for military use."

The technology works by detecting and measuring terahertz waves, or T-waves for short. These are a form of electromagnetic radiation, emitted by all people and objects that lie between the infrared and microwave parts of the spectrum.

The waves from any given material also carry a distinctive signature, offering the potential to distinguish Semtex from modelling clay and cocaine from sugar.

The "Hi Tech" Corporate Police State: "Reengineering" the Internet ... for Persistent Surveillance

Ghost in the Machine: Secret State Teams Up with Ad Pimps to Throttle Privacy

by Tom Burghardt

The secret world of "cyber situational awareness" is a spymaster's wet dream, made all the more alluring by the advent of ultra high speed computing and the near infinite storage capacity afforded by massive server farms and the ubiquitous "cloud."

Within that dusky haze, obscured by claims of national security or proprietary business information, take your pick, would you bet your life that the wizards of misdirection and deception care a whit that you really are more than a disembodied data point?

Lost in the debate surrounding privacy invasion and data mining however, is the key role that internet service providers (ISPs) play as intermediaries and gatekeepers. From their perch, ISPs peer deeply into and collect and analyze the online communications of tens of millions of users simultaneously, in real-time.

Concerted efforts to eliminate online anonymity, in managed democracies and authoritarian regimes alike, are greatly enhanced by the deployment of deep packet inspection (DPI) sensors and software on virtually all networks.

As Canadian privacy watchdogs DeepPacketInspection.ca tell us, DPI offer ISPs "unparalleled levels of intelligence into subscribers' online activities."

"To unpack this a little" they aver, "all data traffic that courses across the 'net is contained in individual packets that have header (i.e. addressing) information and payload (i.e. content) information. We can think of this as the address on a postcard and the written and visual content of a postcard."

All of which is there for the taking, "criminal evidence, ready for use in a trial," Cryptohippie chillingly informs.

Still the illusion persists that communication technologies are somehow "neutral." Neither good nor bad but rather, much like a smart phone loaded with geolocation tracking chips or the surveillance-ready internet itself, simply there for all to use.

Reality as is its wont, bites with ever-sharper teeth.

As with other recent advances touted as breakthroughs--from the biomedical and pharmaceutical research that spawned factory farming and genetically-modified crops to something as seemingly banal as the highway system that ushered in exurban sprawl--from the workplace to the car-pool lane to idle hours spent trolling the web, our techno-toys function rather handily as instruments of social control.

Simply put, DPI hand our minders an unprecedented means to examine and catalogue our online communications. From blog posts to web searches to the content of email and video files, we're delivered up every day, figuratively and literally, to advertising pimps or law enforcers, a faceless army of gatekeepers guarding an indefensible system in perpetual crisis.

Subtly guiding internet traffic into fast and slow lanes, based on the size and content of a particular file, or examining said file for malicious or illegal content, DPI has been deployed as a means of conserving bandwidth and as a defense against viral attacks.

Leaving aside the critical issue of net neutrality, linked to moves to further monetize the internet and hold communications hostage to the ability to pay for quicker network speeds, there is no question that ISPs and individual users should have a keen interest in defending themselves against the depredations of organized gangs of identity thieves and predators.

If DPI were solely a tool to weed out malicious hacks or channel traffic in more equitable ways, thereby ensuring the broadest possible access to all, it could provide concrete benefits to users and contribute to a safer and more secure communications' environment.

This hasn't happened. Instead, securocrats and corporatists alike are working feverishly to "reengineer the internet"--for the delivery of targeted ads and as a surveillance platform--and both view DPI's ability to read individual messages, the "deep packet" as it were, as a singular means to do just that.

Last year, Antifascist Calling reported on moves by surveillance mavens to deploy deep packet sniffing Einstein 3 software developed by the National Security Agency on the nation's telecommunications infrastructure.

As with the agency's pervasive driftnet spying on Americans, as AT&T whistleblower Mark Klein revealed in his release of internal company documents, DPI and the hardware that powers it is the "secret sauce" animating these illegal programs.

Earlier this year, Klein told Wired Magazine that the documents suggest that NSA's warrantless wiretapping "was just the tip of an eavesdropping iceberg," evidence of "an untargeted, massive vacuum cleaner sweeping up millions of peoples' communications every second automatically."

Ostensibly designed for detecting and thwarting malicious attacks aimed at government networks, The Wall Street Journal revealed that the packet sniffing Einstein 3 program, developed under the code name TUTELAGE, can screen computer traffic flowing into state portals from private sector networks, including those connecting people to the internet.

"Its filtering technology," journalist Siobhan Gorman wrote, "can read the content of email and other communications."

Einstein 3 is considered so toxic to privacy that AT&T sought "legal assurance that it will not be sued for participating in the pilot program," The Washington Post reported. Although they were given assurances by Bush's former Attorney General, Michael B. Mukasey, that the firm "would bear no liability," AT&T deferred until the Obama administration granted the waiver in 2009. So far, the federal government has expended some $2 billion on the program.

Jacob Appelbaum, a security researcher with the Tor Anonymity Project told CNET News in March that expanding Einstein 3 to private networks "would amount to a partial outsourcing of security" to unaccountable corporations.

But it will do much, much more. Appelbaum averred that the project represents "a clear loss of control [for the public]. And anyone with access to that monitoring system, legitimate or otherwise, would be able to monitor amazing amounts of traffic."

A year later, a related program under development by NSA and defense giant Raytheon, "Perfect Citizen," relies on a suite of sensors deployed in computer networks that will persistently monitor whichever system they are plugged into. While little has been revealed about how Perfect Citizen will work, it was called by a corporate insider the cyber equivalent of "Big Brother," according to an email obtained by The Wall Street Journal.

I have pointed out many times that under the rubric of cybersecurity (the latest profit-generating "War on Terror" front), the secret state, America's telecoms and internet service providers are conjoined at the hip in what are blandly called "public-private partnerships."

Indeed, the secrecy-shredding web site Public Intelligence, posted a confidential document that provided details on the inner workings of one such initiative, Project 12.

Ultimately, the goal of the secretive enterprise, Public Intelligence averred, "is not simply to increase the flow of 'threat information' from government agencies to private industry, but to facilitate greater 'information sharing' between those companies and the federal government."

This will be accomplished once "real-time cyber situational awareness" is achieved across all eighteen critical infrastructure and key resources (CIKR) sectors identified in the report.

Simply put, NSA's warrantless wiretapping program and a constellation of top secret cybersecurity projects will come to nought if filtering software that examines--and catalogues--the content, or deep packets, of those spied upon aren't deployed across all networks, public and private.

No surprise then, that the origins of the ghost in the internet surveillance machine lie in unscrupulous efforts by advert pimps to deliver us to market.

"Opting In" to the Corporate Police State

Readers are familiar with the practice of web sites that install tracking "cookies" and other nasty bits of code that follow our antics across the internet. This information is sold to advertisers by firms such as Google and Yahoo who charge a premium price for the privilege of peering into browsing habits. Last month The Wall Street Journal reported that a gaggle of niche firms "harvest online conversations and collect personal details from social-networking sites, résumé sites and online forums where people might discuss their lives." We're told that the dubious practice of "web scraping" provides the "raw material" in a rapidly expanding "data economy." Journal reporters found that marketers "spent $7.8 billion on online and offline data in 2009" and that "spending on data from online sources is set to more than double, to $840 million in 2012 from $410 million in 2009." And with incentives such as these, and virtually nothing in the way of regulation, is it any wonder we find ourselves preyed upon. While we might garner a measure of privacy from the prying eyes of ISPs, marketing vultures and our political minders through the use of strong encryption, as I reported last month, the Obama administration will soon seek congressional authorization which mandates that software designers and social networking sites build backdoors into their systems. According to The New York Times, the administration claims this is necessary so that law enforcement and intelligence snoops have a surefire means "to intercept and unscramble encrypted messages," because their "ability to wiretap criminal and terrorism suspects is 'going dark'." Mendacious administration claims are more than matched by those in the online advertising industry. Last week, The Wall Street Journal reported that deep packet inspection, "one of the most potentially intrusive technologies for profiling and targeting Internet users with ads is on the verge of a comeback, two years after an outcry by privacy advocates in the U.S. and Britain appeared to kill it." Advertising grifters Kindsight and Phorm "are pitching deep packet inspection services as a way for Internet service providers to claim a share of the lucrative online ad market." Right up front, Phorm declares that theirs' is a "global personalisation technology company" that "delivers a more interesting online experience," that is, if your interests lie in having a behavioral profile of yourself created, centered around intrusive web tracking and data mining technologies. While both firms claim that user privacy is of "paramount" concern, the industry's track record suggests otherwise. In 2008 for example, internet marketing firm NebuAd planned to "use deep packet inspection to deliver targeted advertising to millions of broadband subscribers unless they explicitly opted out of the service." An outcry ensued when the scheme became public knowledge. While NebuAd has gone out of business, "several U.S. ISPs who signed deals with NebuAd have been hit with class-action lawsuits accusing them of 'installing spyware devices; on their networks,'" the Journal averred. According to Ars Technica, the lawsuit charged the firm and ISPs "Bresnan Communications, Cable One, CenturyTel, Embarq, Knology, and WOW! of all being involved in the interception, copying, transmission, collection, storage, usage, and altering of private data from users." NebuAd was accused by plaintiffs of exploiting "normal browser platform security behaviors by forging IP packets, allowing their own JavaScript code to be written into source code trusted by the web browser," the complaint reads. "NebuAd and ISPs together cooperate in this attack against the intentions of the consumers, the designers of their software, and the owners of the servers they visit," attorneys charged. "All of the involved parties," journalist Jacqui Cheng wrote, were "alleged to have violated the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986, California's Computer Crime Law, the federal Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, and the California Invasion of Privacy Act." In Britain, a similar controversy erupted when BT Group PLC were forced to disclose that they "had tested Phorm's technology on some subscribers without telling them. Last year, BT and two other British ISPs that explored deploying Phorm's service--Virgin Media Inc. and TalkTalk--abandoned it," the Journal reported. At the time, the nose-tweaking tech web site The Register revealed that although Phorm refused to state how many BT customers had been profiled, "at the absolute least there are 38,000 BT Retail customers unaware their communications have been allegedly criminally intercepted in the last two years. The number could be as high as 108,000." When grilled by The Register as to why Phorm doesn't believe "people have the right to know how likely it is they were part of a secret test," a Phorm spokesperson replied "'We're just not going to disclose that'." He claimed "'they were BT customers and you have to ask BT about that'." BT also refused to respond to inquiries. How's that for transparency! Why then, should users believe industry professions of faith that ISPs won't provide them with subscribers' real identities? After all, as one wag told the Journal, ISPs "feel like they have data and they ought to be able to use it" and "they really desperately want to." Accordingly, the Journal reported that Kindsight, owned by telecommunications giant Alcatel-Lucent SA (talk about a seamless web!), "says six ISPs in the U.S., Canada and Europe have been testing its security service this year although it isn't yet delivering targeted ads. It declined to name the clients." CEO Mike Gassewitz told Journal reporters that the company "has been placing ads on various websites to test the ad-placement technology and build up a base of advertisers, which now number about 100,000." Phorm's history hardly inspires confidence. CEO Kent Ertugrul, "a Princeton-educated, former investment banker," we're informed by the Journal, honed his business skills in the early 1990s when he formed "a joint venture with the Russian Space Agency to offer joy rides to tourists in MiG-29 fighter jets." Coming at the height of the Yeltsin kleptocracy that looted billions of dollars in assets from the sell-off of the prized possessions of the former Soviet Union, at the very least this should have raised an eyebrow or two. Before changing its name to Phorm in 2007, Ertugrul ran an enterprise called 121Media. According to numerous published reports, the firm produced a spyware application called PeopleOnPage. "This application," Wikipedia averred, "acted as a browser hijacker and passed details of the user's currently visited website to central ContextPlus servers, so that the user could be targeted with advertising" in the form of intrusive pop-ups. The adware component, AproposMedia, was described by InternetSecurityZone.com as "...a malicious executable program that is usually installed without user consent or knowledge. AproposMedia may have the ability to secretly monitor, record, and transmit computer activity." Indeed, The Register reported that Ertugrul's PeopleOnPage ad network "was blacklisted as spyware by the likes of Symantec and F-Secure." Former pop-up king Ertugrul has called online rights' campaigners "privacy pirates" who represent a "neo-Luddite retrenchment," and told The Daily Telegraph last year that Phorm's technology is a "game changer" in "protecting users' privacy." But armed with a marketing scheme that promises "the potential for companies to collect substantially more revenue for literally any page on the internet," serious privacy concerns are a real issue when deep packet inspection technologies are touted as a splendid means to do so.

Web inventor Tim Berners-Lee told New Scientist in 2009 that the "ever-increasing power of computers that is helping the internet to grow is also threatening its future."

Berners-Lee "likened DPI to wiretapping, and pointed out that companies could use it to learn a huge amount about our 'lives, hates and fears'."

Information I might add, that is portable and readily exploitable by our political minders and the corporate grifters they so lovingly serve.

And with a national security state already monitoring huge volumes of data collected from the internet and other electronic communications' platforms, The Guardian warns that Britain and other managed Western democracies are "sleepwalking into a surveillance society."

Isn't it time we woke up?

The 'New World Order'

Soon this world will be divided into 10 major geographical regions and nerve centers. The Illuminati know that all of the governments around the world are destined to collapse soon. They know this because these are planned economic collapses. With the total collapse of the global economy a world wide take over will be enforced thereby creating a Totalitarian Police State.

The "New World Order"

The Coming 'New World Order' in Bible Prophecy

Daniel 9:27 He (the Antichrist, the soon to be ruler over the NWO) shall confirm a covenant/peace treaty with many (Israel and the Palestinians) for one week - seven years. This treaty starts the 7 year countdown to the end of the age (not the "end of the world") resulting in the construction of the third temple on Mount Moriah and the mid-point "abomination of desolation" that Christ described in Matt. 24:15. The battle of Armageddon will be at the end of this seven year period.

Daniel 9:24 Seventy weeks are determined for your people and for your holy city, to finish the transgression, to make an end of sins, to make reconciliation for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal up vision and prophecy, and to anoint the Most Holy. 25 Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the command to restore and build Jerusalem until Messiah the Prince, there shall be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks; the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublesome times. 26 And after the sixty-two weeks Messiah shall be cut off, but not for Himself; and the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. The end of it shall be with a flood, and till the end of the war desolations are determined. 27 Then He shall confirm a covenant with many for one week; but in the middle of the week He shall bring an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall be one who makes desolate, even until the consummation, which is determined, is poured out on the desolate.

Daniel 7: 7 After this I saw in the night visions, and behold a fourth NWO beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and it was diverse from all the beasts (kingdoms) that were before it; and it had ten horns. Revelation 17:12 The ten horns which you saw are ten kings (rulers over ten economic or regional unions) who have received no kingdom as yet, but they receive authority for one hour as kings with the beast. 13 These are of one mind, and they will give their power and authority to the beast. Daniel 7:8 I considered the horns, and, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things. Revelation 6:2 And I looked, and behold, a white horse. He who sat on it had a bow; and a crown was given to him, and he went out conquering and to conquer. Revelation 13:2 ...The dragon gave the beast his power and his throne and great authority. 3 One of the heads of the beast seemed to have had a fatal wound, but the fatal wound had been healed. The whole world was filled with wonder and followed the beast. 4 People worshiped the dragon because he had given authority to the beast, and they also worshiped the beast and asked, "Who is like the beast? Who can wage war against it? 5 And he was given a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies, and he was given authority to continue for forty-two months. (the final 3 1/2 years) Daniel 9:27 ...and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the offering to cease... (This is the abomination of desolation that is spoken of in Matthew 24:15. This is when the antichrist enters the temple, stops the temple sacrifices, and then declaring himself god and demands worship.) Revelation 13:7 And authority was given him over every tribe, tongue, and nation. 8 All who dwell on the earth will worship him...

11 Then I saw another beast (the false prophet) coming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb and spoke like a dragon. 12 And he exercises all the authority of the first beast in his presence, and causes the earth and those who dwell in it to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

Daniel 11:36 Then the king (Antichrist) shall do according to his own will: he shall exalt and magnify himself above every god, shall speak blasphemies against the God of gods, ...for he shall exalt himself above them all. 38 But in their place he shall honor a god of fortresses; and a god which his fathers did not know he shall honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and pleasant things. 39 Thus he shall act against the strongest fortresses with a foreign god, which he shall acknowledge, and advance its glory; and he shall cause them to rule over many, and divide the land for gain. 41 He shall also enter the Glorious Land (land Of Israel), and many countries shall be overthrown ... 42 He shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape. 43 He shall have power over the treasures of gold and silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be at his steps. 44 But tidings out of the east (the advancing armies of China and N. Korea) and out of the north (Russia) shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many. 45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace between the seas in the glorious holy mountain; yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

Is the end really that near? Do we need to be concerned about how much time we have left or just go about our business as usual? The one for us to go to for that information is Christ. When Jesus' disciples asked what would signal his return, he gave them several signs to watch for. He also taught that the time immediately before his coming would be known as the "beginning of sorrows" (Matt. 24:8), which is another way of saying the "onset of labor pains." Jesus was saying the signs of his coming would start out as mild pangs spaced widely apart like human labor and then gradually become closer together and more intense, like the birth process, until the final seven-year (Daniel's 70th week) period of suffering and judgment is to culminate in the coming of the Messiah. Concerning the last days he replied, "And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars... For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and great earthquakes, in various places". "...and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring". "And as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man".

2 Thessalonians 2:3-4 Let no man deceive you by any means: for [that day shall not come], except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

The New World Order (NWO) As It Relates To The Coming Antichrist And His Kingdom

The prophesied one-world government is being formed on earth at this very time. The Bible prophesies that the Antichrist (Final dictator) will ultimately reign over a global NWO world government for three-and-one-half years just prior to the Second Coming of Jesus to establish His own world government.

Satanically Empowered Control

Control of the coming endtime government will be consolidated into the totalitarian hands of the Antichrist. The dragon, which is the devil, gives this world governmental system its seat, power, and great authority (Revelation 13:2). We will all feel the oppression of this world government structure because it is satanically inspired, and it is forming right now.

Revelation 13:7 states that power will be given to the Antichrist over "all kindreds, and tongues, and nations." Verse 3 says, "And all the world wondered after the beast." Daniel 7:23 tells of a world governmental system ruled by the Antichrist, "The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be diverse from all kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces." The prophecy then states that this world government will rule the world until the Second Coming.

Globalization

After the Berlin Wall fell in 1989, we began hearing new terms like World Community and International Community. David Rockefeller said that a global crisis would have to occur before the world would be willing to accept a New World Order. When the world's economy began a dramatic downward plunge in 2008, world leaders again proclaimed the need for a New World Order with global economic structures.

The word "globalization" means exactly what it says. It is the process of transitioning the world into a global government. When we hear about international law, it is referring to the laws of the international government. When we hear about the World Court, it is referring to the court system that has been created to enforce the laws of the world governmental system. The World Bank, the World Trade Organization, the World Health Organization—all of these powerful world institutions are exactly what they say they are. They are all components of the one-world government, the world government prophesied for the endtime

2,000 years ago.

Names for the coming Antichrist: The king of fierce countenance (Daniel 8:23) The prince who is to come (Daniel 9:26) The beast (Revelation 19:19-20) The son of perdition (Thessalonians 2:3) The lawless one (2 Thessalonians 2:8) The man of sin (2 Thessalonians 2:3) The foolish shepherd (Zechariah 11:17)

The Herd Mentality

It's Time For The Sheeple To Open Their Eyes To See The Truth. The Elite Are Going To Bring Us All Under The Control Of A Single Global Fascist State.

Here it is for everyone to see all summed up.

The goal of the Illuminati is to set up an Orwellian Police State, with a more controlled society and continuous surveillance over every citizen! First they'll destroy this present world system and then they'll bring in their "New World Order". What they want is perpetual war, intrusive government surveillance, and all individuals subordinated to the state. This is their main agenda, "Order Out Of Chaos" to gain control by fear introduced into the hearts of all people.

The Illuminati Agenda - Billions of sheeple under the control of the elite. Their actions are not unlike those of wild animals culling on the weak, sick, and old prey. The elite feel that predators are a necessary and beneficial part of natural systems. They are very much convinced of the fact that if we remove them from the picture, there will be consequences.

What is happening and has been happening in this world is mind-blowing, but perhaps the most astounding thing is the herd mentality that most of us so blindly follow. Think of this - the ones who control the psyches and collective thinking of the people control the governments.

Have we handed over our rights and freedoms to the elite so that the elite can enslave us? And why have we been so dumbed down?

We are not free because there are people who have real power over us, the Illuminati, and they exercise great power over the world.

The choice that we all have to make is, do we just go along with the crowd or break free of the established norms.

Do we just want to exist and live with the status quo and continue to be asleep or do we want to become free of the future that they have for us.

"Collective fear stimulates herd instinct, and tends to produce ferocity toward those who are not regarded as members of the herd." — Bertrand Russell

"A Nation Of Sheep Will Beget A Government Of Wolves." - Edward R. Murrow.

Christ's Imminent Return

ALL End Time prophecies are AT AN APEX right now and ready for fulfillment. Literally, "THIS GENERATION" is now living in the rapidly narrowing gap of time adjacent to the very 'start' of the final 7 Year Tribulation period.

It bears repeating: ALL MAJOR Bible prophecies are right NOW at a prophetical APEX at this crucial time in world history, CONFIRMING the very Nearness of Christ's return precisely as the Lord instructed his followers to "KNOW" IN THAT GENERATION (That is the generation which sees the fulfillment of the signs in Matthew 24) All THINGS WILL COME TO PASS!

The Antichrist

There is still one major goal set to be fulfilled, the ushering of one "Supreme Leader" to head the one-world government, he is the AntiChrist. The AntiChrist is destined to rise in the last days as the ruler over the one-world government.

He will rule in tyranny and will bring great terror. The AntiChrist is destined to be the ruler of the last empire to rule the world which is actually the revived Roman Empire. This empire will control politics, economics, army and religions of the world. This ruler will be fearless and will not embrace any religious conviction. He will demand to be worshiped as God. He will force everyone on earth to bear his mark on their forehead or in their hands. Without this mark, no one can buy nor sell. The one world currency is a major requirement for the establishment of a cashless society.

Ordinary citizens of the world are not aware that the world is already divided into ten major regions referred to as kingdoms. Regionalization of countries is a step forward to the one-world government. Organizations associated with the New World Order use a "ten kingdom" model in their plan for the coming world government.

In the Book of Revelation, the prophet John revealed that the AntiChrist and his ten-nation confederacy will rule the world during the last 3 1/2 years of the coming Tribulation Period. Organizations associated with the establishment of a one-world government have already drafted their one-world constitution.
